Flood Fine Art Gallery: Domestic Bliss 2019

Featuring the artwork of Western North Carolina artists Connie Bostic, Brenda Coates, Linda Larsen, Mary Roland and Alice Sebrell, AKA The Faux Book Club. They concentrate especially on contemporary art that is more engaged in asking questions than having answers, more concerned with process than product, and that hopefully challenges their own thinking along the way. The work expresses the explicit individuality of its maker. Their work has been exhibited in venues as far-reaching as the Meadows Museum in Shreveport, LA to a local tattoo parlor. They work in a variety of cross-disciplines: painting, sculpture, installation, mixed media, the written word and always kitsch. Opening reception: 6-9 pm. Saturday, April 27

Hours: Open 10am-6pm. Closed Wednesdays

850 Blue Ridge Rd. Unit A-13, Black Mtn. NC 28711 828-357-9009 www.floodgallery.org

Swannanoa Valley Museum and History Center - Beacon Blankets Exhibit

April 13 – Nov. 1. The Beacon Blanket mill was once billed as the “largest blanket manufacturer in the world.” The company moved south to Swannanoa in the midst of the Great Depression and was an integral part of the local economy until its closure in 2002. Come learn about this world-famous company and the Swannanoa Valley people who shaped its history for nearly a century.

Hours: Open Tuesday – Saturday 10am-5pm. Closed Mondays & Sundays.
